To: All Residents
From: Connie Stuckert, President, DVRA
Re: Upcoming Channel 1970 Programs, etc.

Today is the last day to turn in your questions for “Kathy and Connie Talk”. Response has been excellent so far, and we expect to have a busy hour!

Yesterday you will have received a questionnaire about the current state of dining services. You should have gotten one per resident, so if you are short please let Kathy know, and a second form will be delivered to you. They are due back next Friday. Trevor Weiss has kindly agreed to do the tallying honors. You may sign them or not, as you wish.

Next Thursday, May 28, Ann Miller and Arline Lieberman will hold another virtual “Listening Post”. Please email your questions to Ann at millera518@comcast.net, or phone her between 10 and 11 a.m. at 484-427-7061. They will research your questions and get back to you with answers.

On 1970 this week, in addition to the usual morning exercises we continue with “The West Wing” and “National Parks”. Instead of the Berlin Philharmonic, this week we feature Jordan Dodson on guitar in a program sponsored by Allegro Music. The movie musical will be “West Side Story”. “Museum Masterpieces at the Louvre” will present works by Reubens, Flemish masters, Rembrandt, and Vermeer, while “The World Was Never the Same” begins with ‘Hippocrates Takes an Oath (430 BC)’, travels through Julius Caesar, Jesus, Constantine, and Muhammad, and ends up with the founding of the first university in Bologna, Italy in 1088 AD. For a little levity, we’re beginning the British comedy series, “Keeping Up Appearances”, starring the ever social-climbing Hyacinth (“It’s pronounced Bouquet”) Bucket, her long-suffering spouse, and her definitely not top drawer relatives. And in this glorious spring who can’t use a few flowers? On Friday evening we present two more episodes of “Gardens of the World”, hosted by Audrey Hepburn.

Have a wonderful week, stay safe, and keep your masks on!
